Look out for signs

Parking signs aren't just for drivers—they help keep everyone safe. When you see parking signs, show your parents and remind them to follow the signs.

Don't block crosswalks

If cars stop too close to where you and your friends walk across, the adult who is driving might not see you.

That's dangerous!

Your parents should always park far enough from crosswalks so you and your friends can walk safely.

No double parking

Double parking is when cars park right next to each other, blocking the road.

This makes it dangerous for you and other kids crossing the street. Remind your parents to avoid it.

Be early

Let's get there early so we don't rush!

Getting to school early can help avoid the rush and help your parents find a good parking spot. Tell your parents, "Let's get there early so we don't rush!"

Turn on the lights

Remind your parents to turn on the headlights if it's dark, snowing or raining. This makes sure everyone can see the car and stay safe.

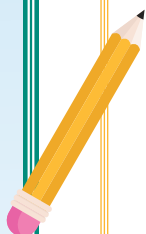

Yay!
You did it.
Way to go!
